How to... save the planet in equine practice

Sustainability is something extremely close to my heart and it's so important to me that I've made it my presidential theme in my presidential year at BVA. I know this passion for saving our planet is something I share with the veterinary community and, in this talk, I'll cover some of the important aspects of how you can help reduce your environmental impact in equine practice.

We'll cover some highlights from the BVA, Vet Sustain, BVNA and SPVS's joint Greener Veterinary Practice Checklist, highlighting some of the 'easy wins' for members of busy equine veterinary teams. We'll also talk about areas we need to be mindful of improving for the future, and how we can lead change and inspire others. Please join me for this important session!
